THEY SAY

—Call West 380.

—That if food stuffs come down, wages must come down. Now what do we want?

—That with the high prices for everything Christmas gifts are going to be very few this year.

—That 18th street between Troost and The Paseo is getting as bad as "Deep 6th." Don't stand for it, business men.

—That he who throws stones should remove all the glass from his own house before someone else busts up something.

—That calling a spade a spade is quite plain, but nothing compared with what it is called if it happens to show up in a diamond flush.

—That if a woman is reserved and not gabby, that the other ninety-nine out of a hundred are continually asking what is the matter with her.

—That a lot of people who think the world is dark and life a failure only need a few vegetable pills or a brisk walk each morning to completely change their vision.

—That for ten years, or since the present management has owned the Sun, it has never missed an issue AND NEVER WILL. Fake journalists will find rough sledding in the two Kansas Cities these days.

—That if "shooting off" one's mouth would publish a newspaper, there would be a hundred Negro "journals" spring up in this city over night, but when it comes to laying down $600 a month, it's an entirely different proposition. Get me?

—That at a recent Church trial where a brother was charged with tampering with the affections of another brother's wife, and when it seemed they had the accused brother bottled up, he began to sing in true camp meeting style "I'm Going to Tell God All About It," but the complaining brother whipped out a big forty-four "gat" and said, "Yes, you're going to tell Him in a few minutes." When the smoke cleared away the singing brother with a double window sash around his neck and a shower of glass rattling on the pavement was seen making it down the street faster than Nancy Hanks ever went in her life.

"HE KNOWS HIS STUFF."

By Mrs. Fannie Parks.
D. M. Miller is some doctor, don't you about that.
The first thing he does is take off his coat and hat;
Of course others will do very well, but D. M. is a burning h—
This word I can't say, you can plainly see, Rev. J. W. may get this paper and read.

When you are sick as sick can be, call up Main 3355 over the telephone.
He will give you the bitterest medicine of any doctor in town, but if you can take it, your feet will sure hit the ground.
When he comes in, he's never in fright;
The first thing he does is to do things right—
Washes his hands, rolls up his sleeves And attends the patient that's sorely in need.

He waits upon you to perfection;
He's not afraid to touch you.
Afraid he'll lose his complexion.
He's some doctor, he's the best;
I would put him in any test.

Ten doctors gave me up to die,
Just then D. M. came motorizing by.
He said, "Child, if you can take what I give you
I sure believe I can pull you through."

I took the medicine with much care;
Now I can go most anywhere.
He certainly can win most any prize
For I am now down to my normal size.

Now if you don't believe what I say
You can call just any old day.
You for yourself can plainly see
The girl with the dropsy at 1610 Tracy.

Now the rest of the staff may think this tough,
But leave it to me, boys,
D. M. sure knows his stuff.

PLEASANT HILL, MISSOURI.

Union services were held at the Baptist Church Thanksgiving Day. The sermon was preached by Rev. Lillard. The program was conducted that night by Mrs. Rosa C. Gipson. Mrs. Fannie was chairman of the supper committee. Miss Martha Thompson, who is attending Lincoln High School, is visiting her parents. Mrs. Gustie Miller, who is employed at the Kellogg Flower Store in Kansas City, spent the week-end with relatives here. Mr. Marshall Taylor and Mrs. Mabel Cummings visited the Will Taylor family. Mr. Earl Williams is reported very ill. Mr. Charles Gudegg visited his daughters in the city last week. Mrs. Lee Morris attended the funeral of her nephew in Lees Summit last week. Prof. G. W. Wood left Wednesday for a five days' hunting trip in Oklahoma. Friends here regretted very much to hear of the death of Mrs. G. D. Bridgewater, formerly of this city. We extend sympathy to the family.

HELENA, MONTANA.

By J. E. W. Clarke.

"Mercy and truth are met together, righteousness and peace have kissed each other." Look out!!!!

Mrs. George Robnett returned on the 27th and is stopping with her mother, Mrs. Miles York. Mrs. Robnett, since her husband's death for France, has been visiting in Kansas City, Mo., her aunt, Mrs. J. E. Carpenter, in Chicago, and in St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Robert Brown has recovered from a few days' touch of the "flu."

Mrs. Charles Oliver entertained at dinner Thanksgiving day Mrs. Laura Meek, Mrs. Nathaniel Ford and Mr. Logan Smith.

Mrs. Laura Sidney and wards, Mary and Florence Thompson, were in from Townsend for Thanksgiving week-end. Miss Alice Fisher and sister, Ethel, are visiting the Christians at Townsend.

Rev. and Mrs. George F. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Ford were the guests of Mr. Rowe Murrell at a well appointed dinner at the Ford residence on the 1st.

Rev. H. C. Parsons occupied the pulpit of St. James A. M. E. Church on Thanksgiving morning, preaching a splendid sermon to a good audience. The choir was in attendance, the first time since all public places were closed. The congregation evidenced their appreciation of sermon and music by giving a liberal collection.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Dorsey were the host and hostess at an elaborate Thanksgiving dinner, entertaining the following guests: Rev. and Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Jefferson Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. W. Clarke. A tall vase filled with snowy carnations, intermingled with pressed cedar, made an effective center decoration for the table.

Mrs. Louise J. Harrison wishes to thank all those, here and elsewhere, who so kindly remembered her with comforting messages of sympathy and beautiful gifts of flowers, during her recent illness.

In a letter from Sergt. George Donnell to his mother, Mrs. William Irvin, the information comes that Corporal Bernice Dorsey and Cook William Donnell are well and still doing duty in the same company. He advises his mother to learn French, as he is forgetting his English.

Mr. George M. Lee, Sr., was in from Boulder Hot Springs for Thanksgiving and presided at the family reunion dinner, the first occasion in three years when all the family dined together. There were at the table Mr. and Mrs. George M. Lee, Sr. and Jr., and Mr. Julian Lee.

"How do you do, Mr. Sunny Jim," says the folks in Helena, as "Sunny," ebullient and with the nonchalance of a Hohenzollern before Uncle Sam's doughboys crossed the briny deep. Sunny, you know, started for Nitro, W. Va., about two weeks ago with a large contingent from Helena. En route the train stopped for refreshments (water), and Sunny grasped the opportunity to do likewise. The capacity of the engine was not so great as was Sunny's, therefore it hiked all too soon for our friend. He made a home run in a westerly direction, so here he is, like the proverbial "bad penny."

Last Sunday Mrs. Louise J. Harrison celebrated her victory over two attacks of the "flu" made upon her. The six weeks' struggle with the Spanish demon made marked inroads upon her vitality, so, to tone up a little, she purchased a sixteen pound turkey, intending to regain a certain amount of lost avoirdupois, and invited Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Dorsey, Mrs. Sarah Morris and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. W. Clarke to assist in this gastronomic effort. Her friends are assured that after the dinner she would tip the scales to an increase of at least ten pounds.
